

Education and Workforce Development Cabinet Regional town forums on environmental education master plan set for August

Press Release Date: Wednesday, July 23, 2014

Contact Information:

FRANKFORT, Ky. (July 23, 2014) – The Kentucky Environmental Education Council (KEEC) is joining with the Kentucky University Partnership for Environmental Education to host a series of public meetings in August for input on Kentucky’s five-year environmental education master plan. The meetings are scheduled for the times and locations listed below.

The master plan will be developed through a collaborative, stakeholder-based process that will guide the direction and coordination of environmental education delivery throughout the Commonwealth.

“Educators, parents, business and industry representatives, administrators or any other interested parties are invited to attend this public meeting designed to gather your ideas for how we can improve and coordinate environmental education across the Commonwealth,” said KEEC Executive Director Elizabeth Schmitz.

People with disabilities may request reasonable accommodations by contacting Michelle Shane at 502-564-5937.

Additional regional meetings are under development for Western Kentucky. All meeting dates and locations will be published as they are available on the KEEC website at keec.ky.gov. If you plan to attend, please RSVP to Michelle Shane at 502-564-5937 or by email michelle.shane@ky.gov.
